Elevations Credit Union Voted Best Financial Institution

Boulder, CO — For the eleventh time in the past 12 years, the readers of the most popular and widely-read daily newspaper in Boulder County, the Boulder Daily Camera, have voted Elevations Credit Union the “Best Financial Institution.”

According to the Daily Camera newspaper, which governs the voting competition, “The awards and recognition are results voted on by the people of Boulder County who use and know them the most. With so many fine choices the competition was tough.”

Elevations Credit Union President and CEO Gerry Agnes said, “To be voted best by the members of the communities we serve is an incredible honor and one all Elevations employees are proud of.” He added that being named Best Financial Institution 11 times is also an accomplishment the organization appreciates. “This recognition is unprecedented and a reflection of our staff’s commitment to providing stellar service to our members day-in and day-out. Our staff also volunteers many hours of time throughout the year serving in the community and we also support charitable organizations through our Elevations Foundation,” Mr. Agnes added. "We feel fortunate to be recognized and appreciated, and we do all we can to give back to our members and those in need."

Elevations, with assets over $950 million, is the largest credit union serving Boulder and Broomfield Counties, providing financial services and education to over 84,000 members.
